

Environmental policy

February 2022

HM-whala!hotels is aware of the environmental impacts of its activities and the importance of proper environmental management in the conservation of the local environment.

Its environmental management policy is a broad-ranging one, encompassing all the company's current work centres and any future ones that HM-whala!hotels might operate.

Given its recognition of tourism's impacts on the environment, the finite nature of natural resources and the problem of climate change, HM-whala!hotels undertakes to ensure that all the hotels that it operates comply with the following environmental principles:

- To carry out exhaustive controls of energy and water consumption and to consume resources in a reasonable, efficient way in order to minimize the impact on the environment.
- To prevent pollution, managing any waste generated by the hotels in a proper way.
- To comply with all applicable environmental legislation in the different countries in which the company is present, together with all other legal requirements.
- To take environmental aspects into account in company decision-making, including the assessment of possible environmental risks that might affect the activities of HM-whala!hotels.
- To foster environmental goals and to share them with guests so as to seek their collaboration.
- To train all staff in matters concerning the environment and to raise their awareness of the importance of caring for it.
- To raise guests' awareness through infographics and good practices at all the hotels.
- To make ongoing improvements to our environmental management system and to plan new goals each year.
